THE COVER STORY

Iceland's 1937 King Christian X Silver Jubilee Issue

Christian Carl Frederick Albert Alexander Vilhelm born 26, September 1870 to Christian Frederick Vilhelm Carl (King Frederick VIII of Danmark, 29 January 1906 to 1912 and Louise Josefina Eugenia (Queen of Danmark and daughter of King Charles XV of Sweden and Norway).

Christian Carl Frederick Albert Alexander Vilhelm ascended to the throne May 1912 upon his father's death, as Christian X. By 1937, he had reigned for 25 years. Danmark and Iceland issued stamps to mark and celebrate the occasion. This article will show the four stamps issued by Danmark, but will primarily highlight the block (souvenir) sheet with three stamps and the additional three single stamps issued by Iceland. The reign of King Christian X and Silver Jubilee was covered by Time Magazine.

This & That

The philatelic season is in full swing with a well-attended show in early February in Maitland and another one scheduled for April 5 followed the next day by our ever-popular Spring Picnic. We hope to see one and all – it will be a busy weekend.

I do have to report that we are going to be dropping 12 members for non-payment of dues. It is regrettable but necessary action as we have to assume that they have no interest in continuing after they have been notified twice by snail-mail and twice by email. I have to believe that we give folks enough reasons to continue to be part of the CFSC.

My life in retirement is defined by going to the gym 4-5 times a week. Do I enjoy it? No. I tolerate it simply because there is no other option if I want to see future years. This morning, I drove into the gym parking lot to find Emergency Medical responders walking into the gym – very quickly. Within a couple of minutes out comes a patron on a stretcher to be whisked away for further medical care. Apparently, exercise will kill you.... I will keep that in mind as my gym adventure continues.

Please keep in mind the next election cycle is less than a year away and the club's leadership will see a major shake up as long serving folks will be leaving the BoD. Your participation is vital to the continued vitality of the club. Be part of the solution.

Be well, be safe and above all else be kind.

It's that time of the year - Renew your 2025 CFSC membership dues! Last Call!

Currently the following individuals have not renewed:

Stephen Ellis	Nancy Fleming	David Girshoff
Gary Geimer	Ronald Gordon	Steven Jones
Stan Martin	Allison Moore	Peter Rieman
Richard Stanley	Glenn Whiting	Ann Wood

Submit your dues payment to Rick Cohen CFSC Treasurer

Tick Tok! Tick Tok, timing is running out!

Unpaid members will be moved from the active roster & email list & to the inactive lists.

COVER STORY—Iceland's 1937 King Christian X Silver Jubilee Issue

By Mike Schumacher

Iceland's 1937 King Christian X Silver Jubilee issue made Icelandic Postal History in several ways:

- It was the first block (souvenir) sheet issued by the Icelandic Postal Administration.
- The block sheet was sold for more than twice its face value.
- Nearly 50% of the sheets were presold to a dealer in London.
- Three additional individual stamps were issued and they were different colors and denominations than the three stamps on the block sheet.
- Both the block sheet and the three individual stamps were sold for a very limited time period (14 May 1937 to 31 December 1937).
- Both the block sheet and the three individual stamps were valid for usage for a very limited time period (14 May 1937 thru 31 April 1938).
- The First day of issue is listed as 15 May 1937, however a special event to honor the Silver Jubilee was held on 14 May 1937 and thus both the block sheet and three individual stamps are known postmarked on 14 May 1937.
- Per the announcement by the Icelandic Postal Administration the three individual stamps were to be sold only as sets. The reality of that happening wasn't likely as there were different amounts of each stamps printed.

14 May 1937 Reykjavik postmark

15 May 1937 Reykjavik postmark

55,000 blocks were printed using typography by the J. Jorgensen printing works in Copenhagen, Danmark
Perf. 14 x 14.5 Stamp denominations were: 15aur; 25aur; and 50aur

Purchase price of the block was 2Kr (the additional funds were used to raise money for post offices).

Aside from Reykjavik block sheet are known first day cancelled in the towns of:

Bolungarvik – is the northern most village in the Westfjords peninsula 14km from Isafjordur.

Hafnafjordur – is a port town located about 10km south of Reykjavik.

and Hvammstangi – is a fishing village in north-west Iceland on the Vatnsnes peninsula.

Blocks used in full or in part on regular mail is limited partly due to the stamp denominations not matching up with typical Icelandic postal rates at the time, their size and half of the blocks being presold to London.

Icelandic postal rates had different rates for Inland mail, Nordic countries and non-Nordic countries.

Inland rates	20gm	125gm	Nordic countries	Non-Nordic countries

P. Petersen was a business man in Reykjavik, who ran the Gamla Bio movie theater and would send letters to Postmasters in remote locations all around Iceland and included a self stamped, self addressed envelope, so that he could obtain postmarks from the various locations.

My research on the Silver Jubilee issue has found seventeen other Gamla Bio covers with usage of the three individual stamps.

A new book recently published documents the P. Petersen Gamla Bio covers and the variety of stamps used on his covers.

Outrageous One & Two

Francis Ferguson

Listing reads; “1938 Thomas Jefferson 3 Cent Stamp RARE Pref 10 Good Condition”. Offered at $100 –or best offer. Free shipping by first class USPS with no returns accepted. The seller does have another 6 common stamp items listed for sale -- that are equally as outrageous. There is nothing special about this listing with 28.3 billion printed during the life span of the issue.

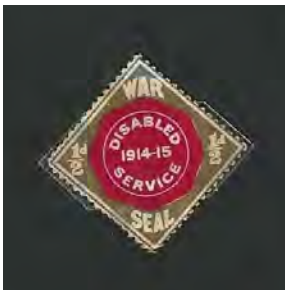

Listing reads; “US # 1204v (1962) MNH, 4c EFO: Yellow inverted (New: down color shift) Oops!!” Offered at $2,500 – or best offer. Shipping is $5.50 by USPS Ground Advantage with no returns accepted. The seller has a zero rating with no sales recorded.

Oh my – there is nothing unusual here. It appears to be the normal variety of the stamp not the purposely printed inverted yellow variety which is of course worth nothing more than the normal one. Just another listing that simply makes you wonder.

What do you think?

What is it?

Reminiscences

By Michael Rogers

When I was a youngster, my dad likened me to Baron Munchausen, as I evaded punishment with elaborate tales, one foot in reality, one on the other side. I was so excited: "I'm descended from royalty," until later on I realized the Munchausen coat of arms that he propped up in the basement was me getting snookered. By the time I figured it out, I thought it was pretty cool.

You wouldn't know it today, but I was a really quiet kid. Squeaked into college. Senior year was a revelation, here I was in Atlanta Georgia, and just didn't have the money to go home for vacation so I walked into the coin shop downtown and asked if I could have a job just for the two weeks. I was hired to do inventory of their stamp department. Their stamp man was well glad to hand off this tedious job to me.

First day on the job I went next door for a nice lunch, fish and fries. First gulp, a big old fish bone got stuck way back in my throat!

I couldn't talk. I could only whisper. And I didn't have insurance so I couldn't go to a doctor right away. I didn't have the sense to complain to the restaurant. So I went back to work and kept my mouth shut. Boy, were they impressed with me! The campus doctor returned a day before my job ended and removed the fish bone. I took the bus to the hobby shop so animated that my boss said "First you don't talk and now you won't shut up!" I accepted an afternoon job which fit in well with my senior year at college.

My generation is shaped by the Vietnam War. I had a college deferment, expecting to serve upon graduation. I took the physical and let's say they were under-impressed. But here I was, having graduated college, preparing myself for Army call-up, and then it didn't happen. My plans were four-year college, Vietnam, graduate school. Now a void. Weird.

So I called my family and said I was returning to Atlanta to take this position as a stamp dealer for a year. A year would tell the tale. If not, I could enroll in graduate school and become a medical social worker as I'd planned.

A stamp dealer? My dad yelled, my mom, well, you know mothers. Let's say they worried for my good sense.

Months later, the coin company got burglarized and there went their entire stamp stock. Fortunately, I'd made a friendship with a coin dealer in Jacksonville, Florida. His name is Barry Williams.

I don't drive. I know how to, but I'm the worst driver you've ever seen. No kidding. I took the driving test in Atlanta and they told me "Boy, we'd give a pig a driver's license, but you'd better stay off the road". I was offered a license, but declined. I just wanted to know I could do it.

Representing the company at stamp shows was really important. I hooked up with Barry, sharing a booth or each of us taking our own booths. We'd go on buying trips, him for coins, me for stamps. Remarkably, we're very good friends today—38 years later.

One time we did a show in the Palmer House in Chicago. Here we were on an upper floor on the last day of the show and the elevator broke down. The dealers were in the midst of moving out. Didn't faze Barry. He's a big strong muscular man. So he shoved both our stocks into our footlocker and hoisted onto his shoulders, saying "Clear A Path!" walking our stock down six or seven flights of stairs!

When the hobby company lost their stamp stock, my job disappeared so I reckoned that I ought to call Barry and wing it down to Jacksonville. Problem was, the only housing I could afford was free, so Barry's family put me up on the porch. Three kids so I was grateful they could squeeze me in. Accommodating as his family was, I just felt kind of restricted working in a coin shop as stamps was my passion.

Three months later, I heard Lt. Col. John W. McDaniel Jr. of Winter Park was looking for a right hand man so with Barry's okay, I contacted John. Working for John was very interesting. When I started in mid 1973, he had a mammoth inventory but merchandised it in a way that prevented him from most easily selling. He'd carefully note price increases, but not lower prices when warranted. When I started, John was real pleased doing $4,000 at one show per month. When I quit in June 1976, we were doing up to four shows monthly grossing $20,000 each. I learned a lot there.

I had a bit of savings when I left John's employ but most went to family needs almost immediately. I was so broke that in July of 1976 I had something like $600. I remember selling 3-cent stamps to neighborhood kids out of my apartment. Really scratching!

I made a deal with John that I wouldn't contact any of his customers. In the stamp business, a dealer's word is as important as a signature on a contract. Sometime during 1975, a guy approached us with some really great stamps, and after checking him out, we knew it really was an inheritance. I was the guy in McDaniel's office that Tom dealt with but he "belonged" to John. So once in a while, Tom would come in with a stockbook of cool U.S. and I'd buy it.

After I left John's employ, Tom came in to him with a very nice book full of stamps, but this time John handled him and it wasn't pretty.

When Tom asked where I was, John clasped his hands below his stomach, saying "Mike's no longer with us." The implication was, of course that I'd passed away. Problem was, Winter Park was still a pretty small place, and Tom hadn't noticed a bit in the paper about me.

So Tom pulled in a favor and got my unlisted phone number, calling me. When I said that I couldn't deal with him because I'd promised John that I wouldn't contact his customers, Tom pointed out that it was on his initiative that he was able to find me. So we met and he showed me a wonderful book of U.S.

Later on he would let me sell for him things like 10,000 sets of U.S. Famous Americans used and the same of U.S. Overrun Countries used.

I'd sort each value into glassines of 100 stamps each. These would be sold to the old H. E. Harris Company.

Tons of work!

Just a wonderful, generous man who is in my thoughts today. A fine friend. ☒
