

THE EXPRESS MAIL of 1836-1839

EMPHASIS on FLORIDA

What are We Going to Learn

- When was it mailed?
- What was the origination point?
- Where was its destination?
- What postage was paid and how much was required?
- Is there anything here which arouses our curiosity?

First Seminole War November 21, 1817 - May 24, 1818

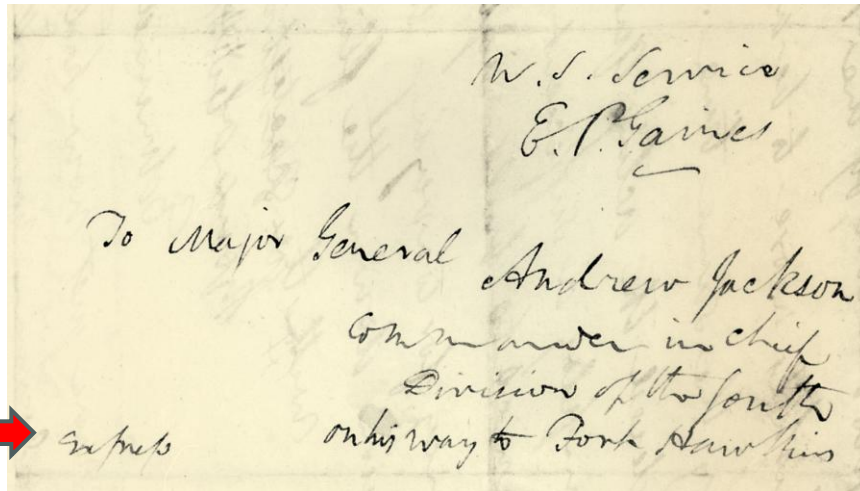

Letter on left from Major General Andrew Jackson, Fort Montgomery carried by William Hambly to Brevet Major General E. P. Gaines at Fort Scott.

Front lower left corner indicates carrier was favored by Jackson, meaning it was treated like "express". The difference was Hambly was not military, but a civilian contractor.

AMOS KENDALL, POSTMASTER GENERAL

In 1836, Kendall felt the need existed for a swifter method of mail transportation.

A rider on horseback could transport a single pouch of letters much faster between two towns close enough for a horseback ride.

The Great Mail Route: Boston - New York – Philadelphia – Baltimore – Washington – Mobile - New Orleans became the first Express Mail route.

Express Mail Background

- The U.S. mails in 1836 were transported between post offices by private contractors, either individuals or companies.
- They bid for contracts offered by the Post Office Department to carry mail over a defined route with specific schedules.
- Express Mail was delivery by horseback for light letters not exceeding 1/2 ounce (exceptions were made). It had special routing, schedules, and different mail contractors than the regular mails, but connected with the rest of the postal network at each stop.

Express Mail Requirements

- Letters were designated Express Mail by the sender or postmaster at the town of origin.
- Neither the town of origin nor the town of destination had to be on an Express Mail route.
- Distance determined the rate. The charge for the service was triple regular postage for the entire distance carried. 75¢ was the average single charge for over 400 miles, triple the normal 25¢ rate.
- Free franked letters and any correspondence containing money were prohibited.

Second Seminole War: December 28, 1837 – August 14, 1842

Dated Headquarters Army of the South, Camp near Fort Jupiter, March 14, 1838, from Brevet Major General Thomas Jesup regarding status of the Seminoles.

Dated Quarter Masters Office, Ft. Brooke May 31, 1838, to Lieutenant E. W. Morgan, Acty Asst. Qmaster, Fort Dade, E. Florida, signed by J.B. Brant, Q.M. and endorsed On Service and Special Express at top.

Second Seminole War: December 28, 1837 – August 14, 1842

St. Armstrong, near
Dade's Battle ground, Florida,
Feb. 18th 1837

Dateline : Fort Armstrong near Dade's Battleground Florida, February 18, 1837.

ST
C. I. Shorn Esq.
New London
Conn.
Express to Fort Drane

A red circular postmark is visible, containing the text "SAVANNAH GA MAR 1". A red arrow points to the handwritten text "Express to Fort Drane".

Fort Drane was near Flemington in Marion County south of Micanopy.
The letter travelled to St. Augustine to Savannah to Connecticut by local postal routes.

DECLINE OF THE EXPRESS MAIL

- In 1836, a horse express was the swiftest method for transportation of land mail on most routes.
- As the railroad network increased in size, the regular mail service had reduced times for transmission of letters, so the advantage of Express Mail service became too expensive to maintain.

Discontinuance of Express Mail service began in 1838 for certain routes and ended on all routes by July 1839.

NEW ORLEANS La. JUL 3 (1839), Express Mail, blue PAID and 75¢ to New York. This may be the latest known use of the Express Mail.

The receiving New York mark on the back of the envelope shows it took 10 days to reach New York. It is questionable as to what the sender got for his money.

Express Mail Service was revived in 1983

1836 - regular mail 25¢ rate is $8.37; express 75¢ rate in today's dollars is $25.92.

Express Mail Rates Continue to Rise
